

SWIMM funded grants to attend onsite or digital scientific conferences in immunology: application spring 2021 is now open!

The Swedish Society for Immunology, SWIMM, offers its members the opportunity to apply for travel grants twice a year. Grants will be given to members for active participation (poster or oral presentation) in a conference that covers any field of immunology. All members can apply but PhD students and post docs will be given priority. In light of the current pandemic and subsequent restrictions in travel, SWIMM will also grant funding to cover registration fees for online scientific conferences in immunology. SWIMM may also grant funding to visit laboratories to learn new methodology, if travel restrictions do not prevent this.

Please note! SSI and ICI meetings are rarely sponsored by SWIMM. Travel grants for these meetings can be applied for from SSI directly.

The application for the SWIMM travel grant is made on the application form on the home page of SWIMM, including an abstract and your merits in one document.

Applications will be evaluated by the SWIMM board based on the scientific value of the abstract. The motivation text and previous experiences will be taken under consideration during the evaluation.

Members who receive a SWIMM travel grant will be asked to supply a short meeting report. Some applicants may also be asked to present their abstract at the KiiM/SWIMM meeting, which will be held in Stockholm October 7-8, 2021. If you need to travel to this meeting SWIMM will pay your travel expenses.

Application deadline for spring 2021 is April 1st. The applications must be for conferences not starting before the deadline of the application and take place within 9 months after the deadline of the application. You need to have paid membership for 2021 (or 2020 as due to the limited activity of SWIMM during the COVID-19 pandemic, all 2020 memberships are automatically extended to 2021) to be eligible for travel grants in 2021.
